Excess Fat And Health

Excess fat, says a Houston doctor, is too often regarded as a figure and cosmetic problem instead of a serious menace to health. Dr. Richard O. Brennan, visiting Tulsa recently, noted that 53 per cent of the deaths in this country last year resulted from cardiovascular problems. Of that group, 90 per cent were overweight.

"It seems to me that if 48 per cent of the over-all population were dying from smallpox," he said, "we would be interested in helping." Indeed, we would so long as the smallpox could be cured without any self-discipline, restraint or sacrifice on our part. Americans have known for years now that tobacco smoke causes cancer, but they continue to coat their lungs with tons of the stuff, puffing along toward the graveyard. We have known for years that excess alcohol destroys the liver and brain, but we guzzle it anyway.

It is unlikely that medical warnings about obesity will have much more impact than warnings about all those other ailments that kill people. Future historians are bound to be puzzled by a race that spent billions of dollars on medical research, but refused to quit killing themselves.—Tulsa (Okla.) World

The Cure-All

There's a fast-growing group of Filipinos advocating that the Philippines become the 51st of the United States.

Says the head of the movement: "Statehood is the only cure for unemployment, graft and corruption, international indebtedness, social unrest, insecurity, rice shortage, sugar quota, lack of capital, brain drain, dollar control, smuggling and as part of the United States surely the Philippines will be an economic giant in Asia."

Maybe if he takes a couple of aspirin and lies down a while those fevered imaginings will go away.—Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

National Security Council Makes Secret Study

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence experts told President Nixon three years ago a settlement resulting in a communist-controlled South Vietnam "would not necessarily unhinge" the rest of Southeast Asia, according to a secret government study.

The intelligence officials said Hanoi's attempt to push gains in the two most vulnerable area countries, Cambodia and Laos, probably would be limited to political agitation, at least at the outset.

Hanoi would be preoccupied, for a time at least, with the formidable task of consolidating communist rule in South Vietnam," the experts said.

The assessment was included as a response to 28 policy questions studied by administration agencies in reviewing general aspects of the Vietnam situation.

The contradictory nature of most of the assessments provided by the various contributors was part of the findings dealing with Southeast Asia after Vietnam.

As the summary prepared by the NSC under direction of Henry A. Kissinger put it: "There continues to be a sharp debate about the effect of the outcome in Vietnam on other nations. The most recent NIE (National Intelligence Estimate) on this subject ... tended to downgrade the so-called 'domino theory'."

"The NIE dissenters believe that an unfavorable settlement would stimulate the communists to become more active elsewhere and that it will be difficult to resist making some accommodation to the pressure then generated."

With some exceptions, those downplaying the adverse effects of a communist government in Saigon were the civilian agencies—State Department, Defense Department and the Central Intelligence Agency.

The opponents were the military advisers, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the armed services intelligence community.

This difference generally marked assessments on many aspects of the Vietnam situation.

The study, classified secret, was coordinated by the National Security Council and given the title National Security Study Memorandum 1.

The more-than-500-page document has been leaked to various news agencies with The Associated Press obtaining, at its own request, a copy from syndicated columnist Jack Anderson.

Threat of War in Middle East Seems Long Way Off

By HAL MCCLURE
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — Spring fever is ruling the Middle East. The threat of war seems a long way off.

The Mideasterner sees not the posturing of politicians but only the trees and flowers budding under soft April skies.

He hears not the oft-empty words of his leaders but only the sweet song of the winging bird.

He feels not the usual swift anger reserved for his enemy, but only a blissful lassitude.

In Damascus, shoppers happily jam the world's oldest super-market, the Grand Bazaar, or lazily sip black Turkish coffee under flaming jacarandas.

Jerusalem's lush hills echo to laughing picnickers on family outings while other Israelis gather noisily around soccer pitches as the national pastime gains seasonal momentum.

On Beirut's colorful Corniche the impatient Lebanese motorist, slowed to bumper-to-bumper pace, inches past packed beaches where scantily clad bathers—and the ubiquitous girl watchers—laze away the afternoon.

In Cairo young couples, trendy in their minis and flower-print shirts, stroll aimlessly along Africa's mother of rivers, the Nile, or join excited queues to see such American-made films as "The French Connection" or "I Love My Wife."

"Don't confuse relaxation with frustration," advised a journalist on one of Cairo's largest dailies. He added: Nothing—or no one—has made the Israelis leave captured Arab lands.

"We have a stalemate, and that's the real Middle East tragedy," he asserted.

Jerusalem says if the Arabs would only sit down and talk peace it would negotiate withdrawal.

But a visitor to Middle East capitals finds it difficult to understand what all the talk of war is about. No one would have guessed last week that President Anwar Sadat had—according to news stories—ordered the Egyptian armed forces on "full alert" to counter a possible pre-emptive war by Israel.

as shown by the study.

The civilians were skeptical about policy, while the military was optimistic about South Vietnam's fighting ability and worried about effects of a communist victory or political supremacy.

The study, classified secret, was coordinated by the National Security Council and given the title National Security Study Memorandum 1.

Paper Endorses Bumpers

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — The Paragould Daily Press has endorsed Gov. Dale Bumpers for a second term.

Paragould is the home town of Mack Harbour, one of those opposing Bumpers in the Democratic primary.

"We feel that Dale Bumpers has handled the office of governor in a manner that should make all Arkansawyers proud and that he deserves to be returned to this position of responsibility," the Press said in an editorial.

They have relaxed on board after their 11-day mission and have undergone extensive medical tests.

After talking with doctors on board, Dr. Charles A. Berry, NASA's director of life sciences, told newsmen in Houston Friday that the three spacemen were in excellent health.

Following Apollo 15, astronauts David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden took as many as 13 days to return to normal health condition.

Doctors also reported Irwin and Scott suffered minor heart beat irregularities while on and about the moon.

In an effort to avoid this, Apollo's food was laced with potassium and the astronauts had a less severe work load.

Berry said that based on past experience, Young, Duke and Mattingly all should be back in normal condition by Sunday, about 72 hours after splash-down.

The physician said each had lost between 5½ and 7½ pounds and that their heart beats during exercise and other tests on the ship were only slightly elevated.

Berry also reported that for the first time on an American manned space mission the astronauts were exposed to radiation from a solar flare, a nuclear eruption on the sun.

But he said the flare was very small and contributed only a tiny amount of radiation to the spacecraft cabin 10-12 hours after it occurred.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite years of U.S. aid and advice, Thailand's army has disappointed American military officials by its performance in a major test against Communist-led insurgents.

An analysis of an operation by 12,000 Thai troops against an estimated 600 rebels in north-central Thailand concluded that government forces exhibited lack of aggressiveness and poor training.

In addition, Thai commanders were criticized for using their troops in big unwieldy formations and for inadequate use of combat intelligence.

As a result, Thai military leaders were said to have decided that new tactics and methods will have to be developed.

Thailand long has been regarded by U.S. defense officials as important to the anti-Communist position in Southeast Asia.

It has become more important to U.S. strategy in recent years because most of the Air Force B52 bombers and fighter-bombers flown against the enemy in North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia operate from bases in Thailand.

Most of the 34,000 American military men in Thailand are involved in the air war.

In the past five years, the United States has provided about $500 million in military aid to improve and modernize the Thai armed forces. About 525 U.S. advisers and trainers, including Green Berets, are working with the Thai forces.

The American advisers are under orders to stay out of any fighting between Thai units and insurgents inside Thailand, U.S. officials say.

Starting in late January, the Thai command sent an army division, five artillery battalions and warplanes against insurgents holed up in a mountain stronghold in the vicinity of Phitsanulok.

Astronauts Head for Reunion

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Apollo 16's astronauts head today for a late evening reunion with their families at Houston.

Astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II will leave this recovery carrier by helicopter for Hawaii after it steams within flight range of Hickam Air Force Base.

Following a Hawaiian welcoming ceremony, they'll be flown by C141 jet transport to Ellington Air Force Base near the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, Tex.

With them on the Ticonderoga are 245 pounds of moon rocks and soil samples and containers of film and other data which scientists are eager to start analyzing. They feel that on and around the moon, the astronauts gathered information that might shed more light on the early history of the moon.

Geologists are almost certain that while walking in the moon's Descartes highlands, Young and Duke found rocks which will prove volcanoes played a part in the moon's formative years.

Young, Duke and Mattingly splashed down in the Pacific on Thursday 1,500 miles south of Hawaii and just 3,300 feet from the Ticonderoga.

They have relaxed on board after their 11-day mission and have undergone extensive medical tests.

DeQueen Man Wins Trip

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP) — Louis McDonald, a De Queen pharmacist, has never won anything in his life, that is, until he won a trip to Salt Lake City, Utah.

McDonald entered a nationwide contest promising the winner a two-week vacation anywhere he liked.

The grand prize, given by a pharmaceutical company, includes air transportation and hotel accommodations for two, meals and $500 for other expenses.

McDonald, 72, said he did have a serious reason for wanting to go to Salt Lake City. His son lives there.

Battle Still Raging in Quang Tri

ON HIGHWAY ONE, Vietnam (AP) — Bodies and parts of bodies litter this unhappy highway southeast of besieged Quang Tri City.

A baby's torso. The head of a woman. A leg.

Barbed wire barricades block the roadway nine miles south of the provincial capital. The checkpoint is manned by about 50 South Vietnamese troops.

They say the North Vietnamese are less than 500 yards away. But they show no inclination to fight them.

Beyond the barricade is a hell of exploding artillery shells and deadly bursts of shrapnel from antipersonnel rounds.

Most of the fire is directed at North Vietnamese positions from South Vietnamese fire bases farther south.

A few small groups of refugees are still southward on Highway 1, but the roadway north of the barricade is deserted. From here, Quang Tri City appears surrounded by enemy forces.

Resupply convoys have not been able to get through to the city. All helicopter flights have been halted because of intense antiaircraft fire.

U.S. officers say there are about 200 wounded, military and civilian, awaiting evacuation in Quang Tri City, but there is no way to get them out.

A constant hub-bub of war can be heard beyond the last checkpoint. The staccato firing of small arms, the crump of artillery shells hitting ground and the dull boom of air strikes.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

May Be Trapped Air

Mysterious Snapping Sounds

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 25 years old and have had a problem with my chest for several months. I have had TB tests, chest X rays and a gastrointestinal series. All that was found was a duodenal ulcer, which was active and treated. When I take a deep breath, I get a dry, snapping sound near the bottom of my breast bone. It is irritating and worries me. My family doctor, whom I have a lot of faith in, told me it may be the ulcer causing the snapping, but he has never heard of such a symptom in 30 years of practice. Could it be the cartilage or could it be the ulcer that is causing it? The doctor said it might be psychosomatic, but my wife also can hear this dry snapping when it occurs. Once it snaps, I have to move around about three minutes and then draw another breath before it will snap again. Your advice would be appreciated.

Dear Reader—I can't be sure what you have, but there are not very many things that will cause a snapping sound in the area you are talking about. The most likely explanation is that there is some air trapped somewhere in one of your body cavities.

I would suspect it may be some air in the pericardium, the sac around the heart. This usually causes no pain. In such cases, there apparently is a small leak into the sac around the heart from the air sacs in the lungs. When the heart beats, it causes a knocking sound called pneumopericardium. Sometimes these are not very loud and can only be heard with a stethoscope. In other instances, they can be heard clear across the room. They are usually fairly consistent and your history of only noting it with a deep breath suggests that, in the process of taking a deep breath, your heart and the accumulation of air in the sac get in the right position to make this sound temporarily.

Usually, air trapped in the pericardium this way is absorbed and only lasts a short time. Therefore, if that should be the cause, I am surprised that it has lasted for several months. Incidentally, there is usually no disease or illness associated with the finding and, once the air is absorbed, the sound goes away.

Of course, people can make sounds in the joints of their shoulders and other places and you can make joints pop, which may also be associated with the accumulation of small gas bubbles, in this instance nitrogen. Still, none of these seem to fit what you are describing, so my best bet would be that it is a little air pocket trapped in the sac near the heart, which would cause the sound to be at the bottom of your breast bone. The diagnosis is usually made by looking very carefully at the outline of the sac around the heart on chest X rays and finding a narrow band of air. It is often missed, particularly if the air pocket isn't situated in the right location to be demonstrated by the chest X ray.

This is an exceptionally rare finding except following heart surgery. I have, however, seen it in healthy young individuals and the only evidence of their illness was the disturbing sound and the little band of air that outlined the shadow of the heart. When it occurs in this setting, it is clinically not important. If it occurs as a complication of some other disease, then its importance is the underlying disease that causes the problem.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a hand that decided an important team match in the early 30s. Both teams reached seven hearts on identical bidding and both Wests opened the diamond queen.

One South cashed one trump and the king and ace of spades; ruffed a spade with dummy's last trump and tried to discard his last spade on dummy's second high diamond. East ruffed and the party was over.

This was a pretty good line of play, but Edward Hymes Jr., the other South and one of the great players of all time, decided that he would be able to locate the queen of spades if he just ran off a lot of trumps.

He ruffed a low diamond at trick two to get some sort of diamond count and noted that East dropped the club 10. Then he cashed six trumps leaving dummy with king-five of spades and queen-nine of diamonds and queen-of clubs. He was also sure at this point that West was holding two spades, two diamonds and the club nine.

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottel

The Goblins Will Get You DEAR RAP:

I beg to differ with Helen's answer to "Justified Liar" who kept her small children from a dangerous river with tales of a big bad wolf down there.

You asked, Helen, "How many times later on did the kids privately question the mother's truthfulness?"

I grew up with a "troll" who lived at the edge of a big dam and kept all the little kids away. That fear was a delicious mixture of fairy tale and just enough belief to control our flirtation with danger. Like Santa Claus, the "terrible troll" DIDN'T build distrust of our parents. We played their game—and it was much better than the spankings we might have got—or maybe a funeral with us as star performers.

That psychology stuff sounds great, but Mama Helen, can you truthfully say you never told a little white lie to protect your kids from harm?

UNDROWNED AND UN-PSYCHED

DEAR UN AND UN:

I cannot tell a lie. Read on:—

HELEN

DEAR HELEN:

I was rather surprised at your answer to the mother who told her children fi keep them from drowning.

When my family lived in woody, remote southern Oregon, I too was warned of the "bad beasts" who lurked on the river's edge, waiting to eat up little girls who roamed alone. I too was mightily "alarmed" at the "legend of Big Bear"—he caught little girls wandering away from home and sat on them!

You know, every time my brothers took me to the river (with parental okay), I kept them a little ahead of me to "tell the beasts I'm not alone!" And when I did venture waterward (a kid must test even if she only braves fifty steps on the river path), I went well armed—with my mother's police whistle, my brother's cap pistol, a big stick, pockets full of stones—and my nurse's kit. Just in case.

As far as I can see, the only harm all this has done is to instill in me a holy respect for big bears. And what's to regret about that?

You see, I was the "victim" of parents who loved me enough to keep me from harm, and I believe they did a fantastic job of raising me, my two older brothers, and my little sister, Sue. I plan to raise my own family likewise, tempering discipline with fun, a bit of fantasy and a lot of love!

So, think back on the olden days, li'l advice clmst: (Ah, how soon we forget our "foibles"—for there is no reason to regret telling such "altruistic lies." They've never hurt us, and we've never thought you wrong.)

THANK YOU, MOTHER—Your loving (married) daughter, KATHY.

DEAR KAT:

My cup runneth over! Thank you, daughter dear, for I always felt a spot of guilt about "Sating Bear."—Your loving mother, HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

It might seem like a small problem, but it's terrible to me. My ears stuck out. I mean they REALLY flap! I try to wear my hair so they won't show, but it's impossible. I'm mocked and called "Dumbo." Help!—E.A.R. DEAR E.A.R.:

Surgery can solve your problem. And it's well worth the price if it saves a lifetime of embarrassment. We hope your parents agree!—HELEN AND SUE

HORSE IS NAMED

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A radio station here held a contest to name "the horse with no name" and the prize was a Palomino mare. David D. Rogers won, with his suggestion "Exodus" and his explanation: "I feel that America's song 'Horse with No Name' is symbolic of modern man's struggle to release himself from the bondage of today's society. The author of the song experienced a 'going out' of sorts. He was going out of the hassles and demands of modern society to the peace of the desert." The new stable for the horse is at a receiving home for welfare children.

Riggs Plans Long Walk

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John L. "Jack" Riggs donned Army combat boots April 10 and set out on a 290-mile walk that he hopes will lead to the secretary of state's office.

Riggs plans to complete his journey from West Memphis to North Little Rock and then on to Fort Smith by May 27, three days before the primary election in which he and three others seek the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

The 34-year-old Riggs, an outdoor enthusiast, was to reach North Little Rock today, completing the first 127-mile leg of the walk.

Why the walk? "I wanted to carry the campaign to the people and I believe the only way to really see them is to get out and stay out with them," Riggs said. "All too many times you spend two-thirds of a day riding in a car trying to get some place to see a crowd."

Riggs resigned as an aide to Secretary of State Kelly Bryant to run for office against his former boss.

He was following U.S. 70 from West Memphis in East Arkansas to North Little Rock in Central Arkansas to publicize his candidacy. He will then travel U.S. 65 to Conway and then U.S. 64 from Conway to Fort Smith in the northwest section of the state. The highways parallel interstate routes.

"I've been climbing up on tractors talking with people, knocking on doors when the houses are close enough to the highway," he said.

Carrying an umbrella with his name written across it, Riggs travels alone, with wife usually driving ahead in their van truck. There are no lonely moments, even in isolated stretches along the highway, he said.

"I don't know how many people have stopped thinking I need help or just wanting to talk," Riggs said.

He said he tried to make 10 miles a day, starting in the morning and knocking off about mid-afternoon. Then he hops into the van with his wife for trips to nearby communities.

Rangers 2nd Baseman Catches the Eye

By DENNE HL FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
ARLINGTON, Tex., (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin was asked if he had any impressions of the young Texas Rangers after watching their first three home games in Arlington Stadium.

"Yeh, that second baseman is playing like he wants to be in the All-Star lineup," Cronin replied.

The second sacker who caught Cronin's eye is scrappy Lenny Randle, who hit a not-so-fat .219 for the old Washington Senators last year.

The switch-hitting Randle doesn't resemble the same player this year as he helped the Rangers get off to an impressive start before the home fans with his red-hot bat and fielding gems.

"Randle has been more aggressive this year both at the bat and in the field," said Manager Ted Williams. "He went down to Pompano Beach, Fla., to win a job in spring training. He hit the field running and he hasn't stopped yet. Sometimes a player like that burns out by July 20, but that's something we'll just have to watch for later on."

Randle, who got his first hit in the majors last year off Oakland's Vida Blue, worked with the Arizona State team during the strike.

"They've got some pretty good pitchers and it sure helped my timing," Randle said. "Also, I got a tip from Ted that has helped. I move up in the box a little bit when I'm batting right handed. And I try to rip the ball now when I'm batting left handed instead of just trying to punch it."

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound Randle, who is a threat on the base paths with his speed, said it wasn't fair to dwell on his 1971 batting average.

"I wasn't playing regularly and I missed a lot by getting hurt," he said. "When I've played regularly, I've always hit fairly well."

Of course, Randle wants to get into the All-Star game but he also has another burning ambition—to beat out a bunt against Baltimore's star third baseman, Brooks Robinson.

"Now, if I could ever get a bunt down against Brooks I'd know that I've also improved as a hunter," Randle said. "He's the toughest in the game to bunt against."

Randle is fast becoming one of the most deadly leadoff players in the league.

"I've got the speed and the ability to draw walks that a good leadoff man must have," Randle said. "Once I'm on I can use my speed to shake up pitchers."

With Cronin taking notice, Randle is already starting to impress the right people.

Double-header Tennis Tournament Suggested

NEW YORK (AP) — William F. Talbert, chairman of the U.S. Open Championships at Forest Hills, has come up with an answer to the current tennis war—a double-header tournament climaxed by a Tennis Super Bowl.

Now all he needs is approval from the feuding parties—Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis troupe and the affiliate associations of the International Lawn Tennis Association.

"I have been distressed by news that the contract proposal to boycott Wimbledon—or are being shut out, whichever the case may be," the former ranking player and U.S. Davis Cup captain said today, "and that the top pros also may not play at Forest Hills and other established tournaments."

"I lay awake at night wondering what the solution might be and then the thought struck me: Why not hold two tournaments simultaneously—one tournament for the contract pros and another for the other players. Let each group determine its own champion and then have the two champions meet on the final Sunday in a sort of super bowl."

"Who could be against it? Both sides would get what they want. The public would benefit. This fighting is silly. All the public wants is to see the players. Why shouldn't they?"

Talbert said that, as chairman and tournament director of the U.S. Open, he would propose a $50,000 tournament involving the best 96 players, such as Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase, who are not under contract to Hunt, playing for a proportionate purse.

"All Hunt is asking is a purse of $50,000—we're willing to put that up," Talbert said. "The other players could compete as they normally would. Then we could have a playoff."

"I don't think Lamar Hunt would object to it. He helped found the American Football League and was largely responsible for the Super Bowl in pro football. I would hope that there would be no obstacle at the ILTF, but who can tell? It's just too simple."

At the present time, the 1972 Wimbledon the most famed tennis tournament, is scheduled to go on without such stars as Rod Laver, John Newcome, Ken Rosewall and Arthur Ashe, members of the Hunt troupe. The big championships at Forest Hills, Rome and Paris also are likely to suffer because the ILTF refuses to give in to WCT's demands for expense monies.

To Speak At Coaches Clinic

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. Bertha Frank Teague, a retired coach, and Charles Heatly, girls basketball coach at Lind-sey, Okla., are among the speakers lined up for the Girls Coaches Clinic June 8-9.

Heatly's teams have compiled a 298-81 record during the last 13 years. He won state championships in 1962 and 1968 and finished second in the state in 1961 and 1963.

Mrs. Teague began coaching in 1927 and retired in 1969. During that time, her teams won 1,217 games and lost 88. She coached eight championship teams and had seven teams finish second in the state tournament. Mrs. Teague, a graduate of Anity High School, now lives near Ada, Okla.

Tigers Rout Chicago 12 to 0

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The pitches just weren't going where I wanted them," Tom Timmerman said apologetically. "I'd try to throw a slider inside but it'd end up outside. But I guess I had a lot on 'em."

The apologies were hardly necessary. Detroit's tall right-hander had so much on the ball Friday night that the Chicago White Sox could barely get their bats on it, ending up with a measly three singles.

The Tigers, meanwhile, had no trouble whatsoever with the offerings served up by four Chicago hurlers, hammering out 14 hits for a 12-0 romp.

Ed Brinkman and Norm Cash each drove in four of the runs as Detroit retained its one-game American League East lead over Baltimore by snapping the White Sox' seven-game winning streak.

Baltimore also had a big night at the plate, pounding California 12-2. In other American League games, Minnesota beat the New York Yankees 4-1, Kansas City blanked Cleveland 4-0, Oakland defeated Milwaukee 5-1 and Texas outlasted Boston 9-6.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs outslugged Cincinnati 10-8, Atlanta blasted Pittsburgh 13-5, St. Louis stopped Houston 7-2, Philadelphia silenced San Diego 3-0, the New York Mets whipped Los Angeles 6-1 and Montreal turned back San Francisco 8-6.

Timmerman, almost exclusively a reliever before this season, was hoping to develop into a fourth starter for the Tigers—but shaky showings in spring appear to have him headed for the bullpen once again.

Once the games started counting, however, he was a different man. In his last outing he pitched seven innings of two-hit ball. His teammates couldn't back him up, though, and he lost 1-0 to the Orioles.

This time he was even more effective, limiting the White Sox to just one hit through the first seven. Still, he couldn't accept his well-deserved praise.

Cash driving in four runs in a game was not so unusual. He's a slugger. But for the light-hitting Brinkman it was a different story. It was the second home game for the Tigers and the second time he was a star. In the first, he'd hit a two-run homer.

"I don't know how to act with all you guys around me," he said to the mob of writers clustered around his locker. "I'm not used to it."

A Look at Baseball's Owners

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Some 25 years ago, when owner Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers signed Jackie Robinson as the first black man in organized baseball, a vote was called by the 16 baseball club owners. Was there a future for the black man in big-league baseball?

Fifteen of the owners voted "No!"

Prologue and epilogue to the spirit, acumen, foresight, altruism and guts of the bulk of baseball owners.

It was a typical case of the owners trying to have their apple pie and eat it, too. While fanning the notion that baseball was "The American Pastime" and symbolized democracy in action, the owners still rejected the concept that all men are created equal.

In fact, the owners, almost since the beginning of professional baseball, have treated the players as hirelings to be manipulated at will and have held the fans in high-handed contempt.

Owners such as Charles Finley, Bob Short, the late Lou Perini and Bill Bartholomay have appealed, with tambourine in hand, to local fans' patriotism. They ask for team support and never mind rising ticket prices. Then, with bleats of creeping bankruptcy, these owners sink on to ever-greener outfields in other sucker cities.

Branch Rickey

Bob Short

Meanwhile, under a 1922 Supreme Court ruling that put baseball outside the pale of antitrust rulings, the owners have cried "Sport, sport," contending that baseball is not a business.

Nothing new in his excellent history "Baseball: The Golden Age," Dr. Harold Seymour quotes two owners in 1919.

President W. F. Baker of the Phillies, on the threatened strike of players for better pay and working conditions: "Baseball is a sport, and the same conditions can't be applied as are resorted to by labor unions in other lines."

Yankee owner Col. Tillinghast Huston in a secret meeting with owners to kind of things with accounting.

"The clubs now, for instance, list 20 per cent of their income to operations—which includes salaries. But they tend to lump their own salaries and other executives' salaries into that figure. And they also have generous expense accounts and provide themselves with various 'operating expenses' like automobiles for their private use."

Seymour questions the owners' contention that many teams "perennially lose money." "These are multimillionaires, big businessmen who own teams," he said. "You can't stay in business year after year and lose money. For example, CBS, which owns the Yankees; August Busch, who owns Anheuser-Busch breweries; and Finley, a great insurance magnet, use their teams as tax write-offs."

Bill Veeck, once owner of the Indians, White Sox and St. Louis Browns, agrees. In his book, "The Hustler's Handbook," he details the complicated method in which rich businessmen buy ball clubs on behalf of a corporate empire and then "use the depreciation write-off (of players) on total corporate profits even if the ball club itself hasn't made enough profit to cover it."

And, of course, the ramifications for a businessman-baseball owner are incalculable in a profit-and-loss statement. As Short, owner of the Washington Senators-Texas Rangers, has said, "Sportspage identification helps my trucking business so much that (my ball club) will be worth the price (he paid $9 million for it in 1969) if they just manage to break even."

And it's rather easy to at least break even, especially when shifts of franchises and, then, the profitable spiraling of selling clubs from one wealthy conglomerate owner to another can, under tax loopholes, duck the Internal Revenue Service.

"It is quite possible for a big-league club to go on forever without ever paying any income tax," said Bill Veeck. "The owners play the 'Star-Spangled Banner' before every game. You want them to pay income taxes, too?"
